Hard Knock Life from Annie

Everyone (including audience!)

Words for our special Henley Youth Festival version of this song are printed below.

Audience should join in the last verse – the conductor will tell you when to start.

Ode to Joy Beethoven

Music makers, sound creators, we are here to sing to you,
Playing, strumming, singing, drumming, magic sounds we bring to you.
Friends together, friends forever, beating hearts in unison, so
Join us in our ode to joy and we will sing and play as one!

Thank you to Alfie Hay, our Compere, Maureen Idowu, our Guest Musician, who will send you a feedback sheet after the concert, and to Rupert House School for use of the venue today.

Maureen Idowu has worked extensively in Music Education. She trained at the Royal Scottish Conservatoire, graduating in Performance; piano and cello. She also holds a Postgraduate degree from the Royal Northern College of Music and a Master of Education from Reading University.

Maureen worked as a freelance musician, touring through Europe and Scandinavia and then as a resident Repetiteur at the Royal Ballet for several years.

She has been a Secondary school Head of Music for many years in Berkshire and Oxfordshire schools and has also worked with Berkshire Maestros. She is an examiner for the AQA Exam Board.

When not teaching, Maureen is busy playing, performing regularly as an accompanist. She also enjoys playing the cello in the Henley Symphony Orchestra and has organised concert visits with Henley's twin towns, Falaise and Bled.
